

REFUTES CLAIMIllesley Rebukes Hanson On Suggestion Grain Bonus Used For "Election Bribe"

OTTAWA, Aug. 1.—(CP)—Dying hours of the House of Commons session were enlivened yesterday by a rebuke administered to Conservative House Leader Hanson by Finance Minister Illesley as the finance tax act amending bill moved slowly through its various stages.

Mr. Illesley took strong exception to a declaration by Mr. Hanson that the government was anxious to influence the vote in the forthcoming Saskatchewan provincial election by so-called "appealing" the opposition leader's suggestion that great portions of the tax could be passed along to industry, by borrowing now instead of taxing.

Members had looked toward the possibility of a national program last night but progress was slow until late in the day.

Defence estimates for non-war purposes went through with little debate but there was a long discussion on supplementary estimates which were finally adopted just before the dinner adjournment, along with national revenue department appropriations which were not debated.

The bill amending the Income Tax Act in connection with budget changes was given second reading and considered for a time in committee but was interrupted until the night session when members had an opportunity to study the bill.

Mr. Illesley declared the fact that the grain bonus tax bill was an appropriation was announced Thursday was purely a matter of administrative detail and had no connection with the Saskatchewan elections, a fact which he said was known to the opposition leader.

Mr. Hanson was not present to hear Mr. Illesley because soon after making his speech he left to catch a train.

In his last speech criticizing the new income tax imposts because of their effect on agriculture, he said come earners, and because of the lateness in the year when wheat was harvested, he had referred to the supplementary estimates tabled Thursday providing some $200,000 for payment of wheat acreage reduction bonuses on the prairies.

SUGGESTS CONNECTION

He suggested there was some connection between the supplementary of that estimate Thursday and the fact Saskatchewan was on the eve of a general election.

"The people of Canada are being a staggering tax bill laid upon them and at the same time come across an additional sum of $23,000,000 in bonuses largely to the people of Saskatchewan while little or nothing is done to appeal to them for their franchise," said Mr. Hanson.

"We are still playing politics with the people's money... We are still trying to bribe the people of Saskatchewan with the taxpayer's money."

"The announcement of that supplementary estimate at this time undoubtedly is to influence the decision of the Saskatchewan electorates at the approaching elections."

Mr. Illesley who was endeavoring to get the new supplementary payments bill through the house, said Mr. Hanson had made a statement "which was not an exception." He added that there was no exception for him.

"The exception to that statement not because I am particular anxious to give the government on political..."

CREATE A FEELING

"If the people of the country took that remark seriously—if the people on whom we are loading heavy taxes of taxes of taxes—read in the newspapers that the leader of the opposition says we are spending too much, then the result in a Saskatchewan provincial election, a very bad feeling would result."

"The people who are asking to assume these burdens would say..."

"Oh well, if that is the way you are going to waste our money. If you are going to play politics with the money you are borrowing, well, and us and taxing us out of well, try and it, get it, and try to prevent you from getting it."

"That is the seriousness of a statement of that kind."

Mr. Illesley said what acreage bonus was an established feature of government policy having to do with the war effort and that the amount necessary to pay it this year was placed in the budget. "There is no excuse after it was known what it would be. The sum was not known until the budget was main estimated had been tabled."

"I do not want anyone in this house or outside to think that there was any secret plan about that and if the leader of the opposition has given the matter any thought he may have realized that."

Mr. Illesley said his suggestion made some days ago and again yesterday by Mr. Hanson that a massive loan of $100,000,000 be costs should be handed on to posterity rather than having it carried by present generation."

It was "an impossibility" to borrow more and tax less, the minister said, but to suggest that burden was to display a lack of understanding.

"The cost of a war are the costs in life, in the standard of living, of standards of living, of comforts and conveniences and necessities which come to the individual in living when the war is being fought."

"These are the costs and they cannot be shifted to those who come afterward."

"Victory Through Air Power" Is Starting In The Bulletin Monday

Air transport is the inevitable answer and the sooner we shall be in it the better off we shall be. It is the most effective means to conduct transoceanic bombardment and "extreme and utopian" as far as the public is concerned. Air power has brought the horrors of war into the remotest village and town; it has made every man, woman and child alike responsible for public opinion on the subject. I am convinced, is indispensable to the welfare of the world. Air power has brought the horrors of war into the remotest village and town; it has made every man, woman and child alike responsible for public opinion on the subject. They both have the right and the duty to understand the total war in which they are so intimately involved.

NEED PUBLIC OPINION

In a democracy like ours, public opinion is one of the greatest forces of action. That force must be put squarely behind the war effort. We must all let the world know our intentions. We must work to inform him in clear-cut language that we are systematically annihilating the Axis sources of strength in Germany and Japan proper.

INITIATIVE IN AIR POWER

However, unfortunately, the initiative in the war has been in Axis hands. The enemy has kept us guessing. He has put us on the defensive and has been operating everywhere with a multiplicity of weapons and strategies, winning, when and how he wants to. The offensive, again, must be led.

But as soon as we fix on an all-power strategy of direct assault on the Axis, we will be in a position to get things moving. Once we have decided on air power as the road to victory, we must all let the world know our intentions. We must work to inform him in clear-cut language that we are systematically annihilating the Axis sources of strength in Germany and Japan proper.

HAIL STORM HITS CROPS IN SOUTH

WINNIPEG, Aug. 1.—(CP)—Crop destroying hail has been told across the prairie provinces, but the damage so far this season is lighter than a year ago.

Districts in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta last week had heavy hail storms.

The district of McGrath, in southern Alberta, suffered heavy hail damage to the centre of a terrific hall damage with scores of windows smashed, roofs torn off, trees uprooted, damaged, and standing fields of grain flattened. Some farmers lost all their crops.

Other fine crop lands, however, escaped a hail beating, and the farmer rain was welcomed by the farmer.

Hail damage was also reported in the Brandon and Selkirk areas where gardens and crops were leveled, and high winds caused damage by flattening green grain. Moose Lake, Saskatchewan and districts south-west of Brandon and west of Carberry, in Manitoba, were storm centers.

Ottawa Plans Better Penal System Soon

OTTAWA, Aug. 1.—(CP)—Police Minister Frank Martin said that "interdepartmental committee soon would complete inspection work which will never be review the penal system as bad as some claimed, he said.

The Canadian people would stand behind the government in prison reform which was recommended by the report had been passed by the Senate.

One night in an expansive mood, he said: "We should not be diverted by the fact that there are many persons who are likely to affect the war effort.

When Mr. Hanson made representations to the government in the recent trials against Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative party spokesman Tom Wien, chairman of the committee of the whole, said the discussion was out of order on the item estimates being discussed.

COMPETENT ADMINISTRATION

Mr. St. Laurent said the justice department estimates came before the house this morning.

Mr. Colwell, G.C.C. leader, said the report of the royal commission had shown Canada "out of line with modern thought in prison methods."

"The penitentiaries should be placed under a commission which the house had confidence," he said.

Conservative House Leader Hanson expressed fear the report had been passed without sufficient consideration.

"WHAT AN ARMY!"Philosophic Jap Sergeant Finds Col. Old-Fashioned

By RALPH MORIN

LOURENCE MARQUES, Portuguese East Africa—(Delayed)

—(AP)—Sergeant Hashimoto was a philosopher. The sergeant was assigned to "guard" men for more than six months—such protection being Japanese custom in a presumably neutral country (French Indo-China).

One night in an expansive mood, he said: "We should not be diverted by the fact that there are many persons who are likely to affect the war effort.

I bowed and quickly replied: "I agree completely. How about having a drink down there for dinner tonight?"

The sergeant blushed, hesitated, but said he would as his commander had ordered him to do.

He returned a few minutes later and said: "Very sorry. Colonel old-fashioned attitude about war."

The sergeant frankly disliked army life.

"WHAT AN ARMY!"

"I have been in uniform more than five years now," he complained, "and still I'm only a sergeant. What an army!"

Once he said he actually believed the story of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor was Japanese propaganda. Later, however, he expressed his opinion.

On one occasion, for instance, he asked me what the United States could do—"the Pacific Fleet having been totally destroyed" but even so the United States could still build another fleet—probably two or three more.

This seemed to depress him. He seemed speaking to me for two days.

And after the Midway battle he said sombrely: "I believe we should make peace."

IS YOURS A FIGHTING FAMILY?Mobilize for Total War on the Home Front!

Canada... your country... is in desperate need of fighting families—families properly organized so that each individual has definite purposeful duties to perform. STUDY THE FOLLOWING SUGGESTIONS AND PUT YOUR FAMILY ON A TOTAL WAR FOOTING RIGHT NOW!

FATHER CAN FIGHT—by curbing luxury spending; walking in place of taking the car. He can direct family war duties and set an example by saving and buying War Savings Stamps and Certificates.

MOTHER CAN FIGHT—by saving bones, fats, rags and materials and careful buying; she can also carry her parcels when making purchases at the stores.

BROTHER CAN FIGHT—by seeking out odd jobs and buying Stamps with his earnings; he can pick up and assemble every piece of rubber or piece of metal he comes across in his roaming around and carry mother's parcels when she goes shopping.

SISTER CAN FIGHT—by helping mother knit, sew and keep clothing in repair; she can also ably assist in performing the many household duties which contribute to a War effort.

Major And Minor Notes

By John Oliver

AT THIS writing it seems like a leap into the far distant future to visualize the 1943 and 1944 Alberta music festivals. Nevertheless, it is time to open our eyes and view them. In these days of priorities, disengagement, different cultures and everything else, it is hard to at least plan far ahead, and then hope that the plans will work.

This is precisely what the music festival committee has done. Preliminary plans for both 1943 and 1944 have been laid, and the 17th annual conference of the Alberta provincial festival will be held Dr. J. Fredrick Station and Mr. Pirani, director of the music competition festival, June 14-16, at the Mount Royal Hotel, Banff, Monday and Tuesday, June 29 and 30. Herbert G. Turner,

In his report of the provincial festival, Dr. Station declared that there had been arranged a very creditable program, but after consultation with the committee another hall was obtained and the program was made available. Alberta District News In Brief

Lumberman Does Not Approve Of Daylight Saving

WHITECOURT—Daylight saving has been tried and found wanting by Fred Plummer of the Plummet & Jackson lumber mill, here. Plummer, a lumberman who believes in giving his animals proper attention before the day's work commences and the sun rises, says there was very much off balance for him.

"Judas Priest," he exclaimed, "was right when he said, 'here I was tearing round the barn with a lantern at night.' I used to bed in the middle of the afternoon with the sun down, but I couldn't sleep and it was getting the best of me so we switched back to daylight saving again."

Now the logs are coming in to the little mill while the boys in the mill are sleeping and Mr. Plummer feels natural again.

Lacombe Veterans Defeat Ponokans

LACOMBE—Lacombe's annual two-day Fair closed late Thursday evening in the Central Alberta Pavilion with a baseball game between the Lacombe Legion and the Ponoka Legion which filled the building to capacity and provided a grand finale for a very successful event.

Weather was extremely poor and only small crowds witnessed the cattle and horse judging. The sun gave out completely at 10:30 a.m. on Thursday, however, and large crowds attended the softball tournament and the final game of old-timers' baseball game in the evening.

Manfred won the softball tournament final by defeating Twin Creek 3-0.

Lacombe's old-time baseball team defeated the Ponoka old-time ball team 15-10. Joe Edgington, Ernie Jeglum and Sorenson worked on the mound for Lacombe while Jim Beach, John Beach and Oldsted carried the pitching burden for the Ponoka team.

Ace Of Great War Gives Son Wings

OTTAWA, Aug. 1—(CP)—A flying ace of the First Great War, Air Marshal W. G. (Billy) Bishop, yesterday presented his son, his 18-year-old son, A.C. W. A. Bishop, a leading airmen, and graduates from all over the domion to the Royal Canadian Air Force Flying Training School.

"This is the first time we told the graduating class, 'You must grasp it and make the most of it. I know you will.'

The airmen would encounter a "fire and fighting fe" when they went overseas, but they could depend on you're better trained than he is, to tell them you're better equipped, and, much more important, you're a better man. You will win; never fear."

Graduates included—Alberta: E. H. Cartwell, Cardston; R. J. Owen, Red Deer; G. W. White, Sunnyslope.

AB. Alphonse Perrin, son of stores department employee, Alphonse Perrin, home on his summer vacation, is here to spend his parents. Alphonse joined the R.C.N.V.R. last spring and was training at the school for a month for active service and after training, was assigned to a merchant ship. On his return from a trip out, the ship was torpedoed, and badly damaged, but due to the fact it was loaded with lumber, it did not sink and was able to be towed into port.

AB. Perrin probably have more time now than 22 days up to the fact that the ship is undergoing repairs but despite his hazardous experience is anxious to get back to work again, and to earn dry land living is going to be monotonous.

Construction is well under way on a new frog-welding plant being built in the C.N.R. yards at 117 street and 12th Avenue.

Machinist Ben Hatfield and Mrs. Hatfield have returned from a vacation at Vancouer, B.C.

The regular monthly meeting of the C.B. of R.E.C. local number 31 will be held at the Westgate, August 8, at 8:30 p.m. in the Masonic Temple.

George Wicklund left this week for Dawson Creek to take over a yard track.

P. Soderberg, night yardmaster, is on annual vacation and is spending it at Vancouver.

Car Checker Les Campbell has been transferred to Jasper as a yard clerk.

Frank Meakin, T.C.A., is in Banff enjoying his annual vacation.

Train Clerk Bill Cameron is on annual vacation, commencing it on Thursday.

Former car checker here, Bruce Telford is now reported to be working at the Canadian Pacific on the Pacific coast. He went out there to take over a position of brake man.

Former Call Boy Alex Brooks, who was transferred to Wainwright, has returned and is now working in the Calder yards as a car checker.

Looking Them Over

By Jack Kelly

DURING the past five or six years an alarming thing has been taking place in North American sport. An invidious influence has crept silently in and today the colorful old rough-and-tumble elements have practically all been routed out and we find ourselves looking in bewilderment at a bunch of athletes whose pimpmouthed behavior would be a joy and inspiration to Emily Post.

Track Meet, Girls' Baseball Next Monday

The program of sports announced for Monday's civic holiday afternoon at Clark stadium will open with a track meet, followed by field events in running, throwing and jumping events at 1:30. There will be a girls' baseball game during the afternoon with the re-united girls' baseball game played by those who participated in the old time league which opened at Boyle street starting at 3:30 o'clock. While it hasn't been impossible to get girls to turn out in the Track and the Eskimo girls' team, players of other teams have remained to play in the games. Two teams will be formed by Marguerite Bauer, who has arranged her baseball debut with the Eskimos.

It is expected that "Shorty" Brad will start the issue for the former team and Pat Vile for the interest of the new team. The members of former days have been invited to do so.

With the season concerns the kind of agent of officials at the Manning Depot to a remarkable extent. Athletes seem to be at 400 a year, the number of the young men stationed at the grounds, in front of the station.

It also is planned that several impromptu events will be staged by various organizations, all having proposed that the afternoon ceremony may have an afternoon of relaxation and enjoyment on the building grounds. The civic holiday sports leaders have agreed to give the afternoon to manage.

And the day's financial proceeds will be voted to some war effort as chosen by the vote of the spectators at the meeting.

Jim Kelly Still Most Consistent Batter

Believe It Or Not—

—By Robt. Ripley

DOES A HOUSE
BURN UP OR DOWN?

Answer
Monday.

Hawkeye Top
Slugger For
The Arrows

Although the actual figures show Jim Kelly fourth from the top in the batting averages for the Edmonton Eskimos, he is the most consistent hitter for the entire season naturally goes to the Hornet outfielder-catcher in view of the number of games he has participated in.

Leading the parade is Don McIntyre of the Dodgers, who in three seasons has collected eight hits in 18 games, while Al Lampitt, Dodgers, has been in only three games.

Ron McLean, Eskimos, along with a rash of the last three games and stands third with .345. Kelly has 10 hits out of 29 trips to the plate in the eight games he has appeared in.

Morris Hawkey, the Arrow, has had his best hitting spot and Arti Solari, who shares with Kelley and Lucius Tougas the honor of making the most hits—12—so far.

Kelly has appeared in all of his games and has had a hand in helping the Arrows on July 2, making only one bungle in four tries. Two days later he had another hit, and on the plate four times and got four walks—a season's record. Kelly has nine hits, ranks ninth high to Fred Linton, who has made 12 hits out of 35 tries in 11 games.

In the meantime, the Dodger, shotstopper, has played more games than anyone else in the league. Lucien has been out for all 12 games, but has had 10 hits and is batting .261. Tougas has received 10 calls on balls, one more than the next-highest Kelly. Lupon . . .

Lupon, who patrols left garden in the Arctic, has had an excellent number of runs scored with 31 and Doug Stevenson, the Arrows' hustling catcher, leads in assists with 100.

Dick Noon of the Dodgers is striking out with the most, the only man who has never been stranded on strikes.

Today's Sport Parade

By Jack Cuddy

NEW YORK. Aug. 1.—(UPI)—Major league baseball clubs plan to continue operations in 1943 on about the same basis as this season, if the government permits, but minor league clubs are uncertain, despite assurances from Judge W. G. Bramham, the minor league czar.

For example, J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas League, says: "I would like to see there isn't going to be any organized baseball next year."

"I recall we were fighting just to get baseball when closed down baseball in most areas," he continued, "well, that war can't continue with the seriousness of the present situation. I hope the war continues, a lot of things will be closed, not alone baseball."

Remarks of Pres. Gardner are pertinent because he is the A-1 League which depends upon rail for the movement of its clubs rather than bus transportation, used largely by the lower minors.

TRANSPORTATION BIG PROBLEM

AND Eddie Mulligan, general manager of the Salt Lake City of the American Legion Class C says, "Sure—I'd like to keep going next season, but I don't know what we're going to do." He added, "I remember the last war too vividly to have any faith in getting some of the lower leagues to stay open. My league has kept going, but my league is like whistling in the dark, because the 18-year-olds will be going into the service and we don't know where they're going to go. There goes our source of supply."

In similar vein, Rollie Barnum, business manager of the Madison, Wisconsin, team of the American Legion, Chicago Cubs farm organization says, "I don't think there will be much minor league baseball, as we have been in existence next year. We did all of our travelling by bus, and by next year we'll have to get another tire or gas for the bus. So how are we going to get from one league city to another. And when we get there, we'll have to play for another year."

These statements are merely some of the more prominent obtained from the United States survey of the nation. They reiterate the fact that the players for another year!

Minister of "The Little White Church

Secretary, Alberta Conference, The United Church of Canada.

"The Strength of the Hills"

Psalm 95:4—"the strength of the hills is his also."

THE Psalmist's delight in "the strength of the hills" reminds us of Robert Burns who sang "My Heart's in the Highlands" when he tribute to the Scotland of his heart. "The hills are the strength of the country of worth." There is strength in the hills for those who walk among them, for those who visit them for relaxation, and for those who live in them. The plains but who long to gaze to distant mountains—indeed, "the strength of the hills is his also for all who love them."

The hills are the "piano" of the landscape, the silent spirit of multi-colored Pyramid Mountain and the subtle spirit of Mount Assiniboine in evening to make known the beauty, the grandeur, the majesty of the hills.

The hills are fortresses of friendship. In their midst human souls are knit in true understanding and comradeship. The hills are the "fortress" which guard the soul of the nation. The hills are the "fortress" of the burn or stream, the hills are the "fortress" of the mountain, the hills are the "fortress" of the trade route, the hills are the "fortress" of life.

The hills are steeples of the heart of God. Their voices reveal the heart and mind of God. The mountain spirit of Mount Assiniboine in evening to make known the beauty, the grandeur, the majesty of the hills.

The hills are the heralds of hope and freedom, the heralds of the promise of God. The hills are the "fortress" of the strength of the hills is his also."

The hills are steeples of the heart of God. Their voices reveal the heart and mind of God. The mountain spirit of Mount Assiniboine in evening to make known the beauty, the grandeur, the majesty of the hills.

The hills are steeples of the heart of God. Their voices reveal the heart and mind of God. The mountain spirit of Mount Assiniboine in evening to make known the beauty, the grandeur, the majesty of the hills.

Lieut.-Gov. Bowen Cites Traditions Of Gallantry In Address To Graduates

While the sky-blue standard of the air force fluttered proudly beneath an angry, lowering black cloud, just as the R. A. F. flew gallantly and triumphantly into the approaching Luftwaffe storm that menaced Britain in 1940, a class of young British observers and navigators received their wings in a colorful ceremony on the parade ground of No. 2 Air Observers' School, R.C.A.F., on Friday afternoon.

A heavy downpour of rain, that drenched His Honor Lieutenant-Colonel G. C. Bowen and other high officials attending the ceremony, occurred near the end of the first wings parade. The rain failed to dampen the spirits of His Honor, who gamely stuck to his duties of presenting the wings to the graduating R.A.F. classmen.

You are able to participate in a great variety of activities in Canada, said His Honor, in his address to the graduates of No. 2 Air Observers' School, which he attended on Friday.

The many Edmonton officers and men serving in this unit which has now formed the 101st Alberta Dragoons of this city and the 15th Light Horse of Calgary.

The battalions which are commanding the 1st Cdn. Guards of Montreal, left Scarce camp shortly after dawn. The troops entrained at 10 a.m. and arrived at Newmarket Park and there they were west before the majority of them had even thought of getting out of bed.

An advance party of two officers and 70 other ranks preceded the unit by about 24 hours.

Mobile units, the 1st Regt. the unit left Calgary at about full strength. Non-commissioned officers of the unit will be given a course of general mobilization orders were issued with the result that when recruits began to pour in they were soon under the care of competent instructors.

Second in command of the battalion is Capt. H. H. McLean, who until the outbreak of war in September, 1939, was officer commanding the 1st Battalion Royal Highlanders (non-permanent militia).

Lt.-Col. Smith served overseas in the present war and the Staff sergeant commanding the battalion before returning to Calgary to take command of the newly-formed unit.

Ingenious Camping Plan For Stay-At-Home

SO YOU can't go camping this summer? Too bad, but that does not mean you can't go camping. Indeed, you can camp right in your own home—and you won't have any disappointment.

The first think to consider is a shelter. If the family owns a small tent, it can be set up in a secluded corner of the yard where it won't interfere with children playing or with the wife's work in the garden or flower beds, and move in.

If you have no tent, perhaps you can get hold of a piece of canvas or carpet. Make a frame by linking two poles to the ground and form a support a third to the top to form a shelter. If the ground is hard, it should be stirred to prevent the tent from packing, and it should be aired weekly. If you know a soldier, ask him how to make up a camp bed for privacy. It would be a good idea to dig in all the way around in case of rain.

You might take one end of your curtains to the side of the garage and use a simple lean-to as a shelter.

A piece of canvas or tarp makes a good shelter. If you don't you can find an old one or a piece of old linoleum. Be sure you smooth the ground carefully before laying the tarpaulin or it will crack and wrinkle.

OTHER SHELTERS

An extra large refrigerator crate or a couple of packing boxes could be the answer. If you have a box, set the head of the bed into the box, and use the lid as a partial roof. Or better still, you have a piece of plywood that could be used as sort of a roof, then drap blankets down the sides of the frame. Canvas could be used in the open space of the crate and draped down over the foot of the bed. The canvas must be fastened to support so it will not blow away. Otherwise, you will get soaked in case of rain.

These are only suggestions. No doubt you will be able to think of other types of shelter. All I am doing up here is what may be available. The possibilities are a bed. Perhaps the family has a folding camp cot and mattress the size of a twin bed. You can use one of the folding varieties. If so, you're all fixed. But you may have to find a place to lay it down.

Your Scout manual has suggestions for making a frame and lacings. You can use these. Just hope your dad will help you nail up a frame out of scrap lumber and show the fine points of making a bed.

You can use fir boughs that have been stripped of the heavy wood

To Make A Friend—Just Write A Chatty Letter

IT IS USELESS to write a long letter on being to people by post and pleasure. It is unusual how many young people want to correspond with people of their own ages in far-off countries or in different provinces. Before the war young people had pen-pal in mind. Now they have friends. From the letters they learned of the customs of distant lands and the different things that young people do.

Todays pen pals are more interesting than ever. Imagine the fun of writing to a girl in Canada, or to England, or Betty Smith of Scotland. Imagine the things one could learn about the other if she would write to them and they would write to us!

There is nothing in the world can provide more pleasure than correspondence. Today the Allied Nations are bound in unity to fight evil. By promoting friendship this unity will be made even more secure. It is promoting Canada's war effort.

Brian F. Graham, 100 Bulleid Road, Middlesbrough, England; 11, would like pen pals, boys and girls, around same age, from anywhere in Canada.

This was a research which she did with great interest and which ranked closely in importance to the dairy care given by her to horses.

To the wonderment of her associates, she could give much thought to the welfare of various breeds of cattle, sheep, and pigs.

She was given the title of "the animal doctor" because of her knowledge, her capable, helpful supervision of her staff and her honest attitude.

Florence Nightingale said that if she could teach children to regard birds as living beings and to kind treatment of all kinds of birds, she would be happy.

Her knowledge of birds was gained through her work with Dr. R. W. Murphy, Major LaGuardia Hospital of New York, and Vice-President of the American Ornithologists' Union.

One of the trip was Mayor LaGuardia's personally conducted tour of New York City, the highlights of which were his meetings with the Pacific Northwest who made an 11,000-mile, 39-day tour of the United States, Canada, Mexico.

Dog on the highway

Do you know the right way? Doggone—King Edward High School.

It has been sacrificed! Fit offering to please certain deities.

These things would hardly be complete without an array of strong white horses. The horse, as we all know, is portrayed as an emblem of purity representing Royalty. It is still supported by the Royal Coat of Arms.

During the early morning, another quaint superstition is that the horse you mounted would turn it in your hand, with a will, and it will eventually double back.

Friendship rivalry was forgotten during the greater part of the day at the camp. "Victory Harbor" The camp, "Victory Harbor," was built on the full shores of the lake and handily situated.

During the day, the horses were taken to the stables and the men were taught to handle and fire craft.

In their handicraft classes they learned caring, camp craft, and the like.

they were held in high esteem.

CRIPPLE FINDS NEW OUTLOOK IN BOY SCOUTS

One of the successes of Boy Scout training has been its interest and value to handicapped boys in children's hospitals. It discloses to them the ability to do many things that sound boys can do. This gives the crippled boy a new outlook on life. Above, a proud newly-made member of the Scout troop at the Junior Red Cross Hospital, Calgary.

Famous Nurse Was Lover Of Bird Life

By MARY AGNES COVILLE

The famous and revered English nurse, Florence Nightingale, was as much a lover of birds as she was of the disabled women in the world. Yet, in spite of being heavily weighed down with many pressing responsibilities, Miss Nightingale managed to find time to enjoy the birds.

Canada's Tank Troops Advancing to War in Mighty Juggernauts of Steel Striking Force Grows Swiftly as Armoured Weapons Roll Out of Arsenals

Off to the wars. Hundreds of Canadian-built Valentine tanks are fighting this Nazi horde in Russia, where this trainload of 18-ton monsters is heading. As big as a living room in an average home, the Valentine travels at 20 m.p.h.

Out of a famous locomotive works which a few months ago produced its first tank, a steady stream of Valentines is going out every day to the world's battlefronts. Swift conversion of the plant to a tank arsenal is an adventure in wartime industry. This line-up of completed Valentines contrasts strikingly with the locomotive giant in the background. The plant is meeting a rigorous schedule.

A trick of the camera gives the interior of this Ram tank a cavernous appearance. By the time all armaments and fittings are installed there will be just enough

Among toughest army jobs is that of this commander. He directs tanks in action.

These stacks of Ram tank tracks are one example of many wartime uses for rubber which dictate the policy of conservation of auto tires, other rubber products.

These heavy infantry tanks of a bilingual battalion from Quebec are part of the Canadian Army Tank Brigade, photographed during intensive manoeuvres in England. The outfit has been built into a powerful, effective striking force.

Part of the production line in the Ram tank factory, second largest arsenal for tank production in the world. Heavily armed with machine guns and cannons, the Ram is powered with a Wright Whirlwind engine, a versatile war machine.

BANNERS FLYING

CHAPTER IX
THREE things—Tommy's letters to the family, Sandra's words and the loss of Stephen's were the marks of touch on the marital explosion.

Tommy's bitterness and his petty jealousies of Bart, who, considering the time, was very too fair in parent in those brief notes home. He didn't see much of Sandra, he wrote her always, always, always, signs and stripes, and it didn't matter whether they were worn by single or double, or even by funny that way. Sandra had her entertainer's job and gave Bart credit for being a good man, appreciative. Oh boy! Bart was composed about all entertainment plans, and think he was the whole flying squadron.

Mrs. Colton said irritably that Bart was a bore, and ought to be angry. Why should Bart waste any time with this girl? Bart has a wife, and she may say so, a lovely one. I think that all is a reflection on you, Christy."

"I'm indignant. I'm not sure what you mean. You know how Tommy is—he has his big interests out of the time now. He's a bore, he believes Bart loves me. Just because he's kind to Sandra. Tommy's not a bore."

I suppose I'm not very modern," Mrs. Colton retorted. "But I don't believe in married men flirting around."

Christie had back escort. Words like "bore" and "flirt" were as furiously with Bart because she felt humiliat-

"I won't let anybody create trouble between us," she told herself. But her heart was heavy as she went along. She was in a position to see Bart so often, and who better than Mother?

Christie plunged more deeply in war work... Red Cross, home defenses, war games meetings. Jan told her she was running wild with her—see which one would be the skinniest girl in the circus.

"And you, Mrs. Colton, are not exactly filled with happiness, my dear sister," Jan said. "Well, I'm not, and I don't have a real game, it's just a lot of youthful and intolerant chattering. Every thing, Christie, if you've been to see Bart, tell Mother, I'd have wanted to stay home."

"I'll tell her."

"She'll be there."

"There's something I want to do. I appreciate what you say, anyway. I think you are absolutely the most wonderful girl in the world."

It would be nice to have the world's best friend, she thought.

She had a secret. Stephen had hurt her, she told Stephen.

He studied her sober thoughtfully. "All right," he said. "I'll tell him what I mean. I'll offer him my freedom, and I'll say I want mine."

you really knew about him was that he was good-looking and could dance.

"Exactly!" Christie spoke immediately. "I had been dating Bart three years."

"Oh, darling. The time you realized that he was a bore, when the kitchen stove smoked?"

"Bart was disappointed in her. My marriage had proved dull compared to what she expected."

"Did you have any bad luck?"

"Yes, I remember." Christie said in a low tone. "Yes, I had some bad luck."

"What for instance?" Christie's voice choked.

She was fighting to be calm, to hold her head high. "Tommy was here to see me. He told me that he had pulled her for the last few moments."

"I'm sorry, I'm sorry, too."

Christie was too. When I told him he threatened to pitch me over the side of the boat if I ever came near him again,"

"No," Christie whispered. "Please don't talk. Tommy, I can't bear any more."

Tommy's face turned red. "Well, I'm pretty how-do-you-do. A grand reception, I wouldn't call it."

"I'm sorry, Tommy, I'm sorry, I'm sorry. I'm not feeling well."

She clung to him after him. She had to sit beside him on the weather-beaten bench. "I hop from place to place, I'm not feeling well. I'll keep up with myself, myself."

"I'm a pretty good detective," Stephen said, smiling. "I'll be there to see you again."

"I got my job back. There was a jobless day—and the next day, I got another job."

"I'm glad to hear that. I told him someone in whom he had great confidence had confidence in me. This somebody told him he was a bore, he was a bore, he was a bore."

"I'm a bore, I'm a bore, I'm a bore."
